DESCRIPTION

Discover a true gem among classic British cars – the Aston Martin DB4 Series III. With only 165 models ever produced in 1961, this one stands out as a coveted rarity. Its impressive condition, boasting a matching-numbers engine, and an elegant California Sage Green exterior over a black leather-trimmed cabin with a wooden-rimmed steering wheel, will leave any enthusiast in awe.

Under the bonnet lies a 3.7-litre straight-six engine mated to a four-speed all-synchromesh manual transmission with overdrive, providing a smooth and exhilarating driving experience. The car's history includes just four owners, and it has been meticulously cared for by the current seller for the past 11 years.

While retaining its classic charm, this DB4 Series III has seen some tasteful upgrades. The cabin boasts retrimmed areas, a Becker stereo with modern conveniences like satellite navigation, and mobile phone connectivity. It also features 16-inch wire wheels with twin-eared knock-offs, adding to its allure.

The car's service history is well-documented, with recent maintenance carried out by Lotus Silverstone in September 2022, ensuring it is in top-notch mechanical condition.

Though showing slight signs of patina, the paintwork remains in good condition, while the chrome brightwork stands out as a testament to its care. Inside, the cabin presents beautifully, with front seats retrimmed, adding to the overall appeal.

With the original owner's manual, period-correct brochure, history file, and toolkit included in the sale, this DB4 Series III is the perfect addition to any collector's treasure trove. Don't miss the chance to own this rare and exceptional piece of automotive history, destined to turn heads and draw admiration wherever it goes.
